ABOUT ME:

I am Marvellous Ediagbonya, an International Relations undergraduate with a growing passion for website development. While studying diplomacy and global affairs, I have taken the initiative to build practical skills in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, creating several small projects and personal websites. I bring a unique perspective, combining an understanding of international dynamics with tech proficiency. I am looking to gain experience in roles where I can leverage both my academic knowledge and my web development skills to support innovative projects.
